about

Aman Singh Bhogal is a Front End Developer and UI Engineer who has worked with clients for over 2½ years to take projects from initial conception to final production and deploying websites across shared and managed hosting systems.

Aman works laterally across both design and development, offering full web services to projects which considers all elements at every stage. This ensures a unified, consistent vision and considers key brand communication and personality throughout, with an artistic eye for design and sound developer practice. He communicates extensively with clients, ensuring transparency and building rapport during and after project launch.

He also provides consultations, mentoring and advice for other designers and developers.

The concepts and approach to each design are rooted in three fundamental pillars:

*BOLDNESS

Sometimes, rules have to be broken. If we carried on creating what we've always created, we will end up what we've always had. Trends come and go. Acumen stays.

*ELEGANCE

Things that are simple need not be basic. By incorporating simplistic interface designs with modern aestheticism, and maintaining coherence throughout, a brand can still communicate its message in an efficient way.

*HUMANISM

Strong UI is, and should always be, human-centred by nature. We are emotive beings, and we gravitate towards the mediums which provoke something within us. This is what helps creates user memory. And a memorable brand.

KMC BIRMINGHAM

*A*man did a wonderful job in designing the new website for KMC Birmingham. From producing prototypes to final implementation and post live support, Aman was involved in all aspects of the life cycle. Aman was a delight to work with, happy to take on board suggestions and committed to building a quality product. Highly recommend him.

I have always found him to deeply care about every project he has been working on. He researches it thoroughly and tries to always do the best possible job having really thought through his course of action. Aman is a really kind, sincere and very respectful person; a pleasure to work with. I wouldn't hesitate to recommend him.
